Local governments, especially smaller to medium-sized municipalities, are prime targets for both internal and external fraud schemes due to their often-limited oversight and resources.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

During this course, you'll develop the skills to:

- Recognize the features that render municipalities appealing targets for fraudsters.
- Identify internal control vulnerabilities that increase municipalities' susceptibility to fraud.
- Detect collusion with external entities aimed at executing fraudulent schemes.
- Revise procurement practices and policies to mitigate fraud risks, fostering an environment of fair competition and reduced costs within the municipality.

We will also discuss prevalent fraud types at the municipal level and explore proactive measures to thwart them.*
